SATURDAY AFTERNOON LACE

Join Mary on (mostly) alternate Saturday afternoons to knit lace. Lace knitting involves pairing yarn over increases with decreases to create patterns in the fabric and is a popular technique for shawls, cowls, berets, even blankets. Mary will work with you before the first class to select a project suitable for your level of experience and then, through the four two-hour sessions, develop the skills to complete your project.

Skills required to enroll: casting on, knitting, purling, increasing, decreasing, binding off.

Skills you could learn in class: * garter tab or provisional cast-on, reading charts, using a life-line, stretchy bind-offs, blocking. (will depend on the project you select*)

If you're looking for ideas, Mary has just completed Gyllis <<http://www.ravelry.com/projects/mere/gyllis>> , Stephen West's latest shawl pattern and her next shawl project is Winnowing <<http://www.ravelry.com/patterns/library/winnowing>> , a new design in Brooklyn Tweed's Wool People, volume 2. she is also working on a lace cowl (a noble cowl <<http://www.ravelry.com/patterns/library/a-noble-cowl>> - a free pattern on ravelry and a great first lace project). and she has her third Traveling Woman <<http://www.ravelry.com/projects/mere/> traveling-woman-3 > hibernating and would love an excuse to revive it!

Mary will contact you before the first class to discuss your project, yarn selection and gauge so you'll be ready to cast on when class begins.

The Seamless Sweater gallery <<http://cast-uncottage.blogspot.com/p/seamless-sweater-workshops.html>> on our blog has several tried and true project suggestions if you're not sure which one to tackle.
